Welcome to the

Brand Guide

In this guide, you'll get to know Miles better and understand what we stand for. You can also learn about our visual identity and get tips and tricks on how to manage the brand in line with our values: professional authority and warmth.

First and foremost

Hi, and thank you for caring!

Thank you so much for taking the time to read the brand guide; we in the marketing department truly appreciate it. Our goal is for Miles' brand to be something we're proud of. It should maintain a high standard, both professionally and functionally, internally and externally.

Everyone at Miles is a crucial ambassador for our values: professional authority and warmth. A strong brand demonstrates integrity and can truly be that little extra something that determines if we're attractive enough in a highly competitive market.

Brand Guide - What is it?

A comprehensive overview and guide for our full brand.

The brand guide is designed to help all users understand why our brand is the way it is and to give you, the reader, knowledge and inspiration to manage the brand as effectively as possible.

The guide consists of three parts: the first part is about Miles, the second part presents our visual identity, and the third part offers tips, tricks, and examples of our visual identity in action.

Do you have any questions?

Got feedback (praise or constructive criticism)?
Have an idea? Need assistance? Don't hesitate to reach out to the Marketing Department.

Part 1:

Get to know Miles

Who we are

We're a value-driven consulting company with a passion for technology and a heart for each other. We have 20 years of experience in the IT industry and have offices in Oslo, Bergen, Trondheim, Stavanger, Ålesund, Haugesund, Innlandet, and Lithuania. We're soon to be 300 amazing colleagues.

What we do

We develop, code, design, advise, test, and optimize technological services and products to help our clients achieve their goals.

We solve challenges, big and small, short-term and long-term, for both the private and public sectors.

Why do we work at Miles?

Because we want to be part of our value-driven company culture with a strong focus on expertise and flexibility. We love technology as a field and a tool for tackling the challenges our clients face and for creating tomorrow's solutions. We want to make a real difference in improving lives, workplaces, and society as a whole.

We are a value-driven consulting company.

Our values are

Professional Authority and Warmth

What do we mean by that? →

Professional Authority

We use our knowledge and experience to ensure our clients receive excellent solutions. We take pride in keeping our promises. We are open, honest, and professionally trustworthy!

Warmth

We take care of our people – both clients and employees. We don't let professionalism and formalities get in the way of being a pleasant and genuine colleague.

Our Vision and Driving Force:

We aim to be an outstanding workplace that unites people and technology to change the world and contribute to positive societal development.

Our vision is ambitious. But it's important to have something to strive for.

We want you to look forward to your workday and be proud to be a part of us and the work you do—because we are! Well-being, knowledge, and strong values are our foundation for succeeding with clients and in collaborations. We will focus on development and responsibility, where employees can be part of something larger and contribute to positive change through technology and expertise.

Market Position - We're Claiming More Ground

We aim to be the reliable technology partner that challenges!

A strong market position can open new doors, enhance growth, and give us greater influence in the market.

We aim to establish a clear and more visible position in the market as a strong challenger, without compromising our values for employees and clients. We've upgraded our brand, and we are "One Miles" strong, both nationally and locally. We're not too big, not too small; we're more than an IT company—we are a partner for our clients in developing future technology and solutions.

We are Miles

Part 2: Visual Identity

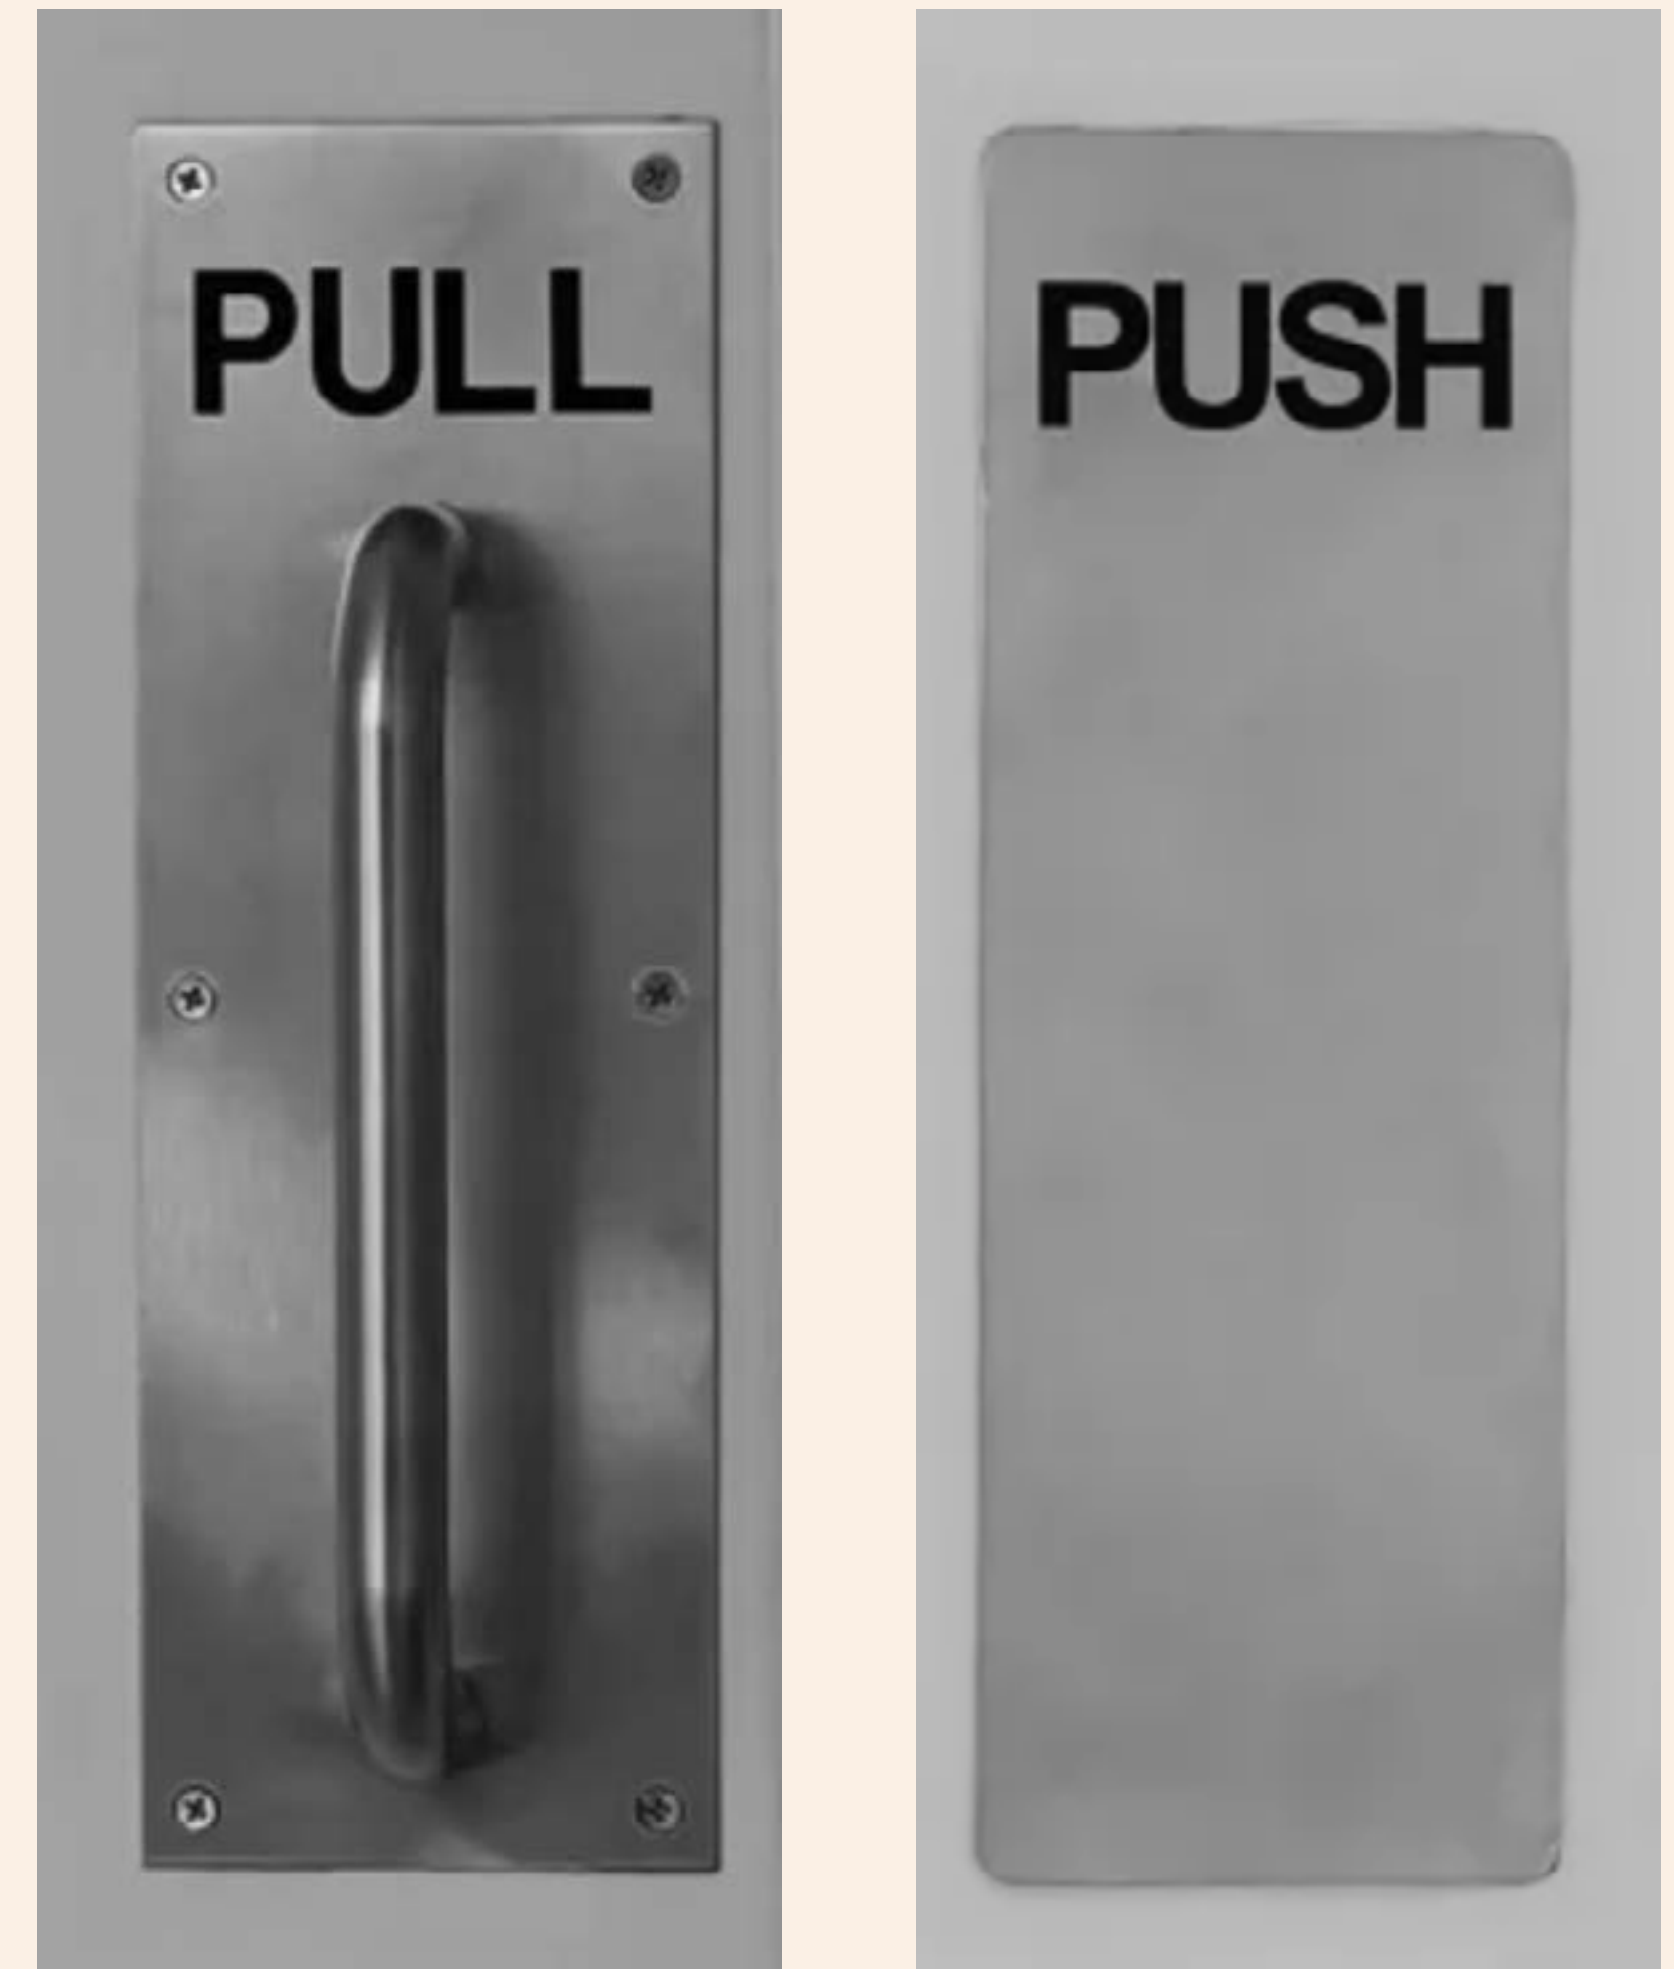

Form, Color, and Identity

Why does design matter?

“A well designed object is one we don’t have to think about. It makes the right choice the easiest one.”

Professional Authority - Poor design isn't professional authority. We must constantly prove to clients and consultants that we live by our own values :)

The Miles Identity

Professionally competent and engaged, inclusive, open and curious, inspiring and responsible.

When the marketing department manages our brand, we need some guidelines to follow. What represents us, and what feels wrong? A company aiming to be perceived as timeless and conservative usually won't use the most experimental visual expression they find. That wouldn't align with the associations they want to achieve. Of course, one can break conventional rules, but then you should be aware of it for a desired effect. To position Miles in relation to our competitors, we need to define the associations that should be linked to us. Therefore, we're defining a "Miles Identity" that influences the choices we make for our visual profile and, subsequently, how we phrase things in our communication, both internally and externally to clients.

The Miles Voice

Our language and voice are: authentic and clear, professional yet friendly.

When we in the marketing department, or perhaps you, the reader, are creating communications on behalf of Miles, it's helpful to have some frameworks and guidelines to follow. The Miles language is an extension of the Miles identity, which you can read about on the previous page. We call it "style and tone." Style is the personality of Miles; tone is how we express ourselves. Text and wording are crucial, and they say a lot about what kind of company we are and how we want the industry, clients, and consultants to perceive us. If you want to learn more about our style and tone, and see concrete examples of how you can write, refer to the very end of the brand guide!

Logo usage

Form and clear space

When using the logo, it's important to give it some clear space so it doesn't appear too close to other elements. Do not adjust its height or width, or add any effects to the logo.

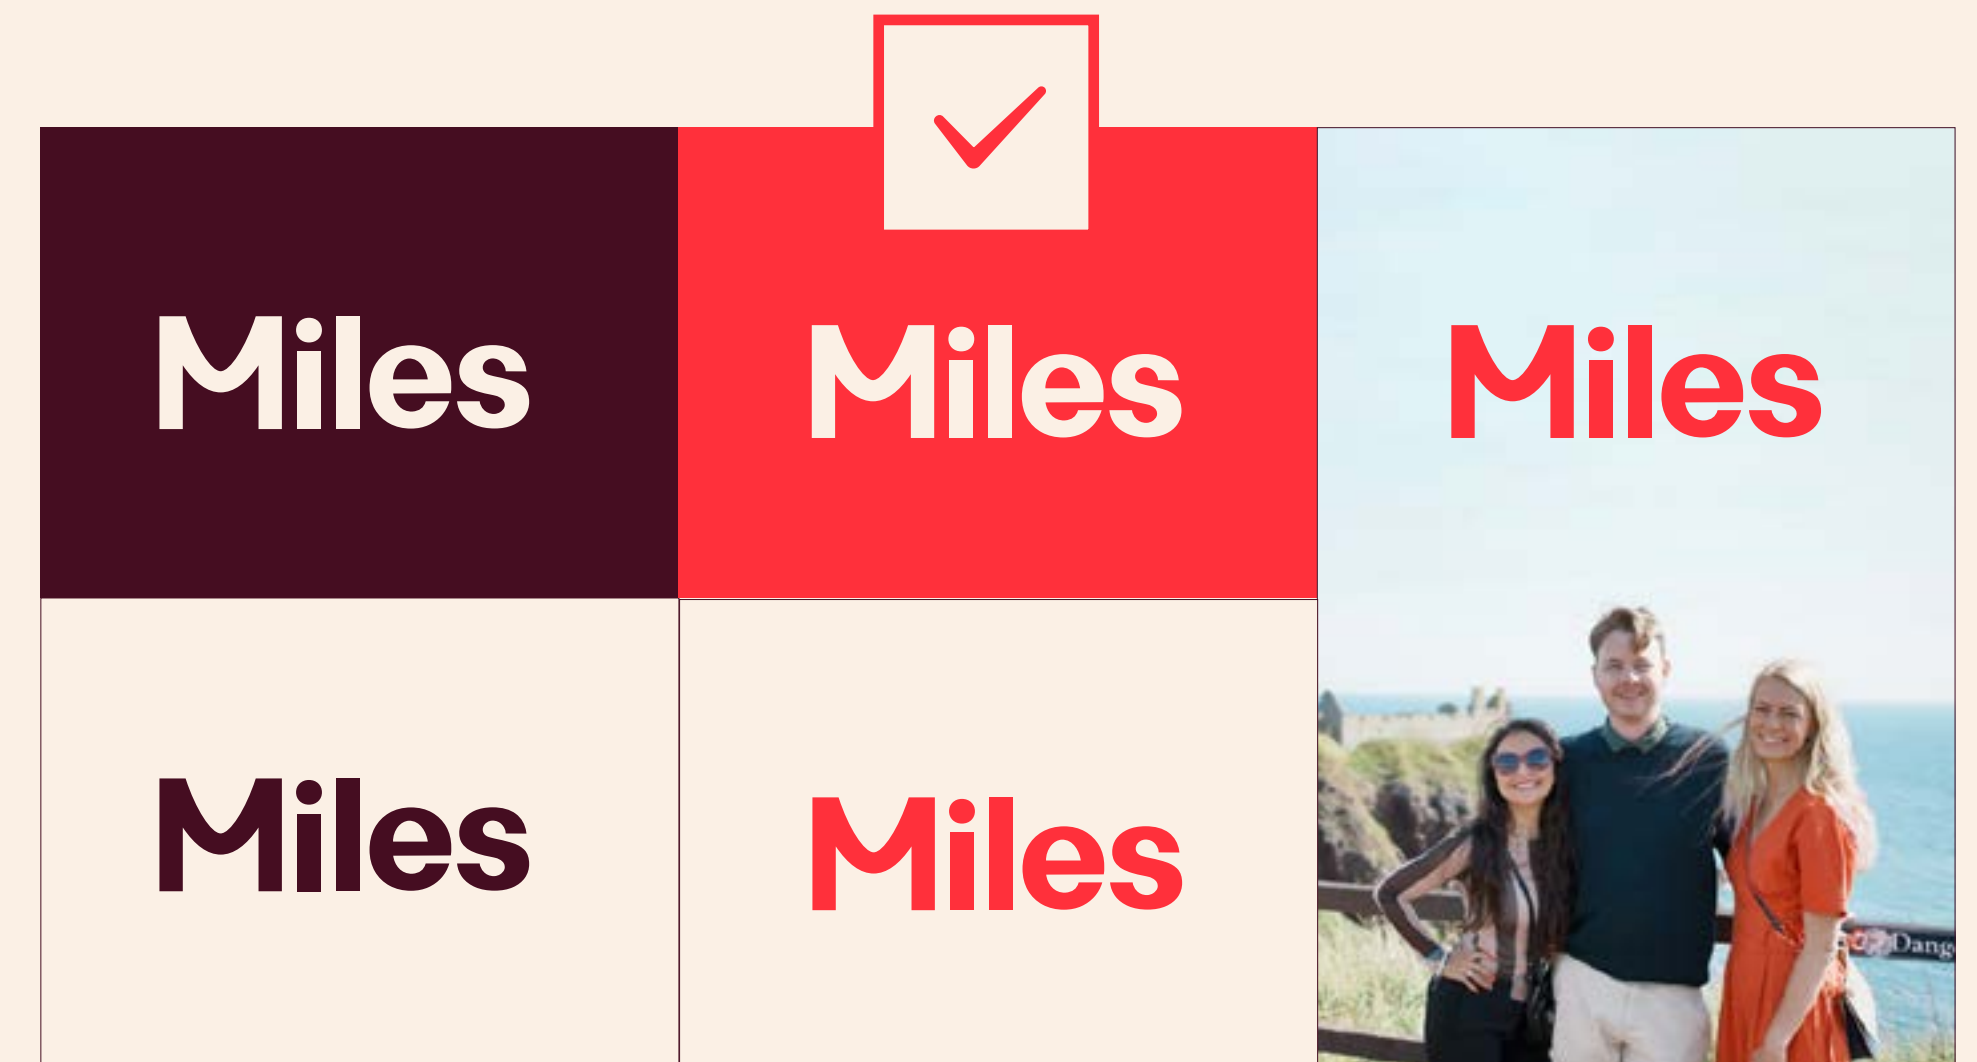

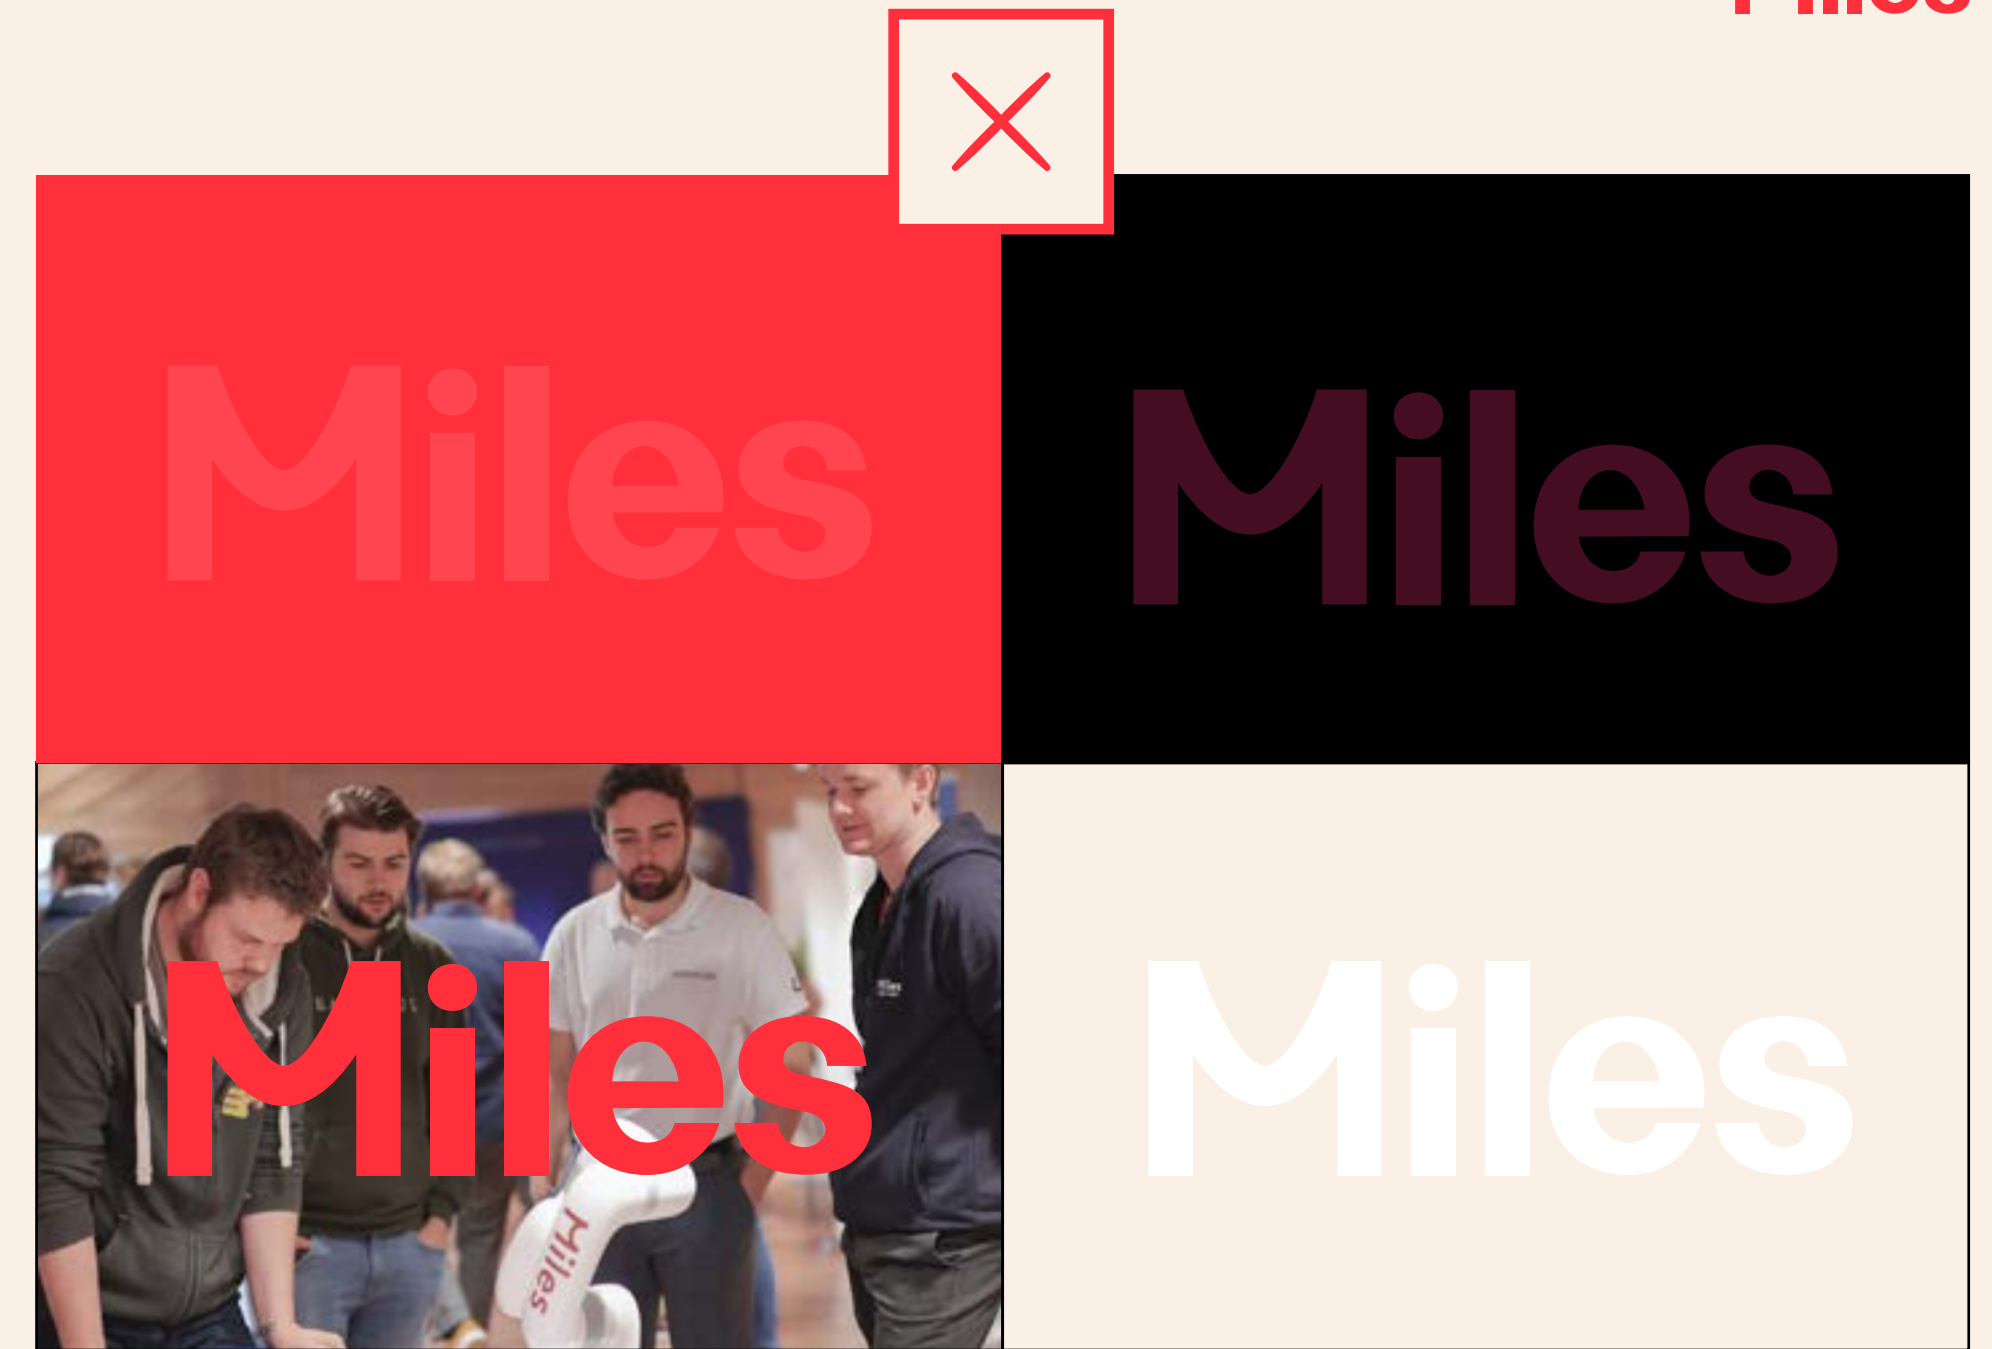

Logo usage

Color and Visibility

As a general rule, use dark colors on light backgrounds and light colors on dark backgrounds. If you place the logo over a colorful image, ensure it remains visible. The same light/dark background rule applies here.

Also, make sure the logo is sharp, not blurry at the edges, and never pixelated.

Colors

Warmth and Expertise

Colors are a vital part of our visual profile. Our color palette is designed to convey both warmth and professional authority.

Miles Red provides stopping power, energy, and passion. Burgundy adds depth, and yellow creates optimism. Cream gives a calm, subdued, and human expression, while purple represents technology and knowledge.

Miles-red CMYK: 0/88/69/0 RGB: 255/48/59 HEX: ff303b	Burgundy CMYK: 47 / 94 / 48 / 72 RGB: 69 / 13 / 33 HEX: 450d21

Primary font

Gelica Regular Gelica Medium

Gelica is a typeface that works well for titles, introductions (ingresses), and quotes. The font is round and friendly, yet sophisticated. We also like that it has personality and contributes to good readability.

Secondary font

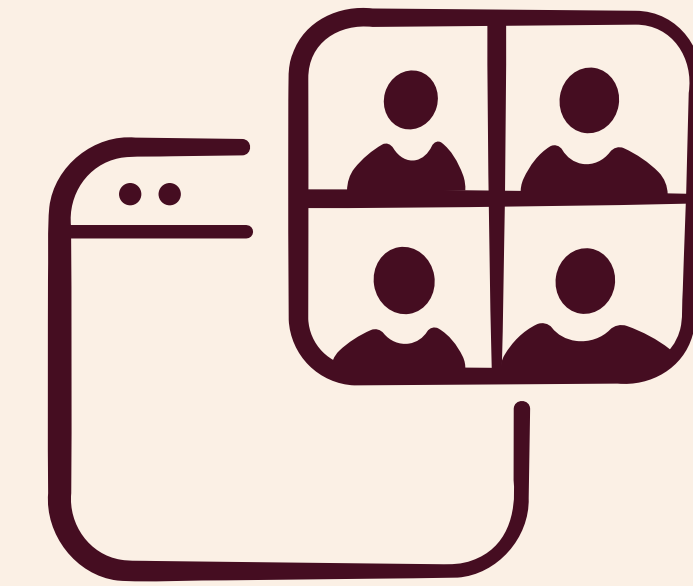

Dm Sans Regular
Dm Sans SemiBold

DM Sans is a clear and minimalist typeface that works well as a counterbalance to Gelica. It's best suited for CTAs (calls to action) and body text on digital platforms, as well as for informative text like numbers/symbols in graphs and on buttons.

Icons

Friendly but Clear

Icons are a crucial part of a complete visual identity, serving as a tool to strengthen internal and external communication and create a cohesive visual expression of the brand. Icons are flexible and can be used in various applications, such as on the website, in presentations, or on printed materials.

Oversikt ikoner

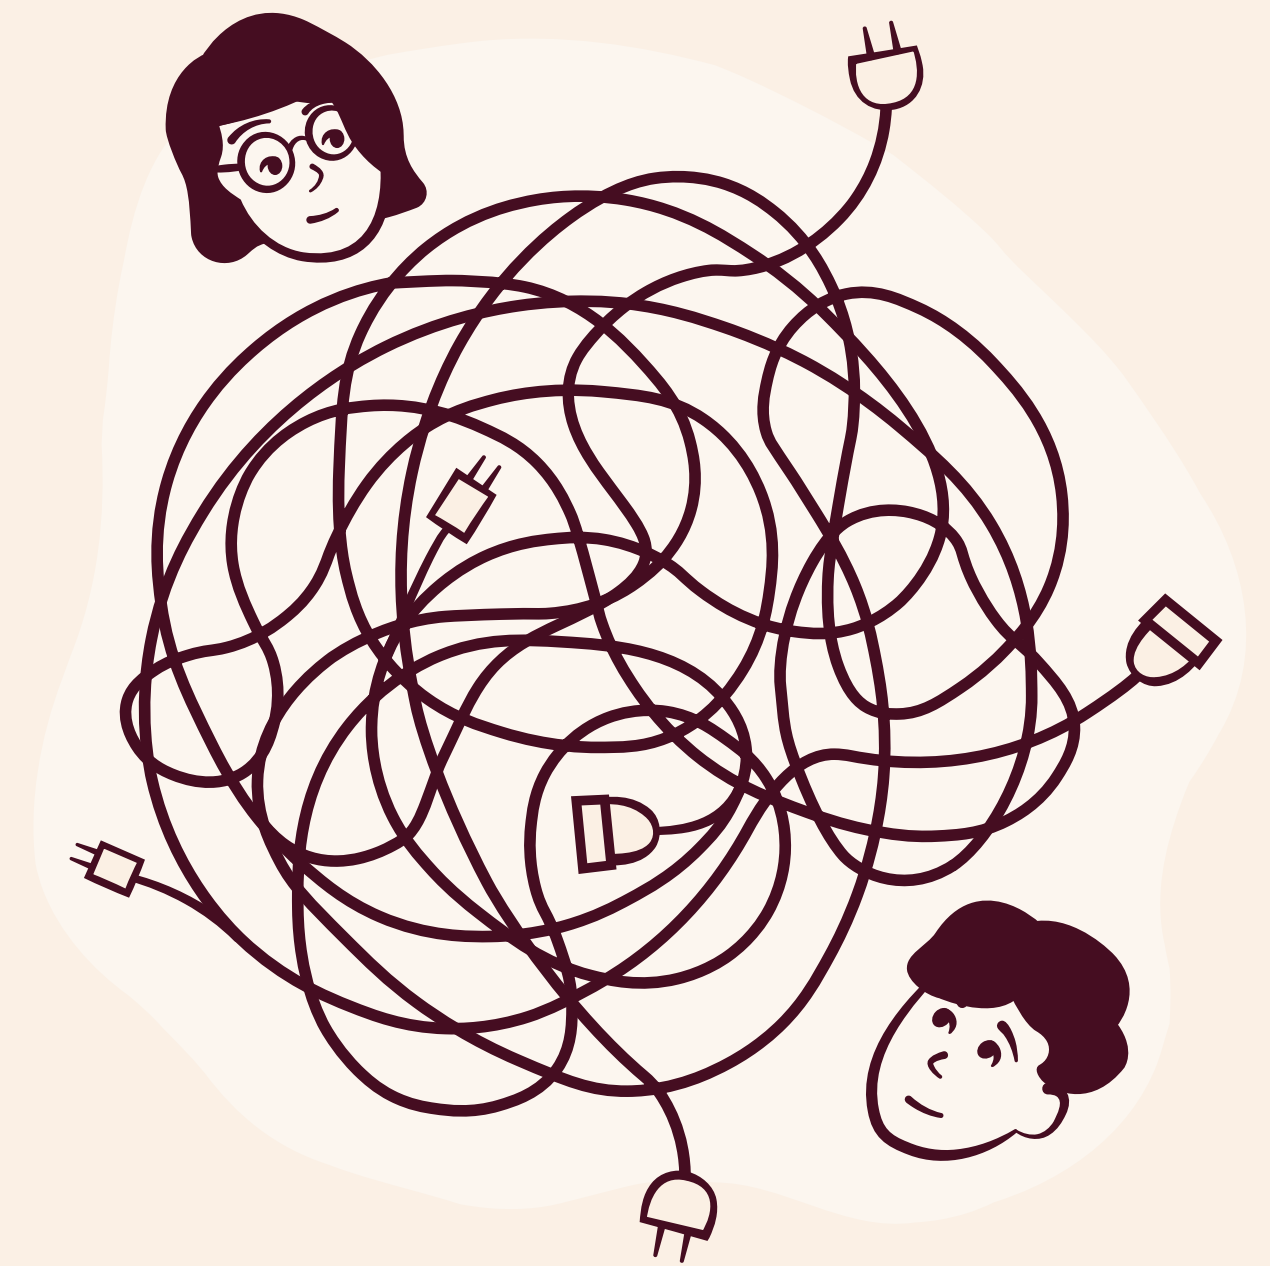

Illustrations

A friendly stroke

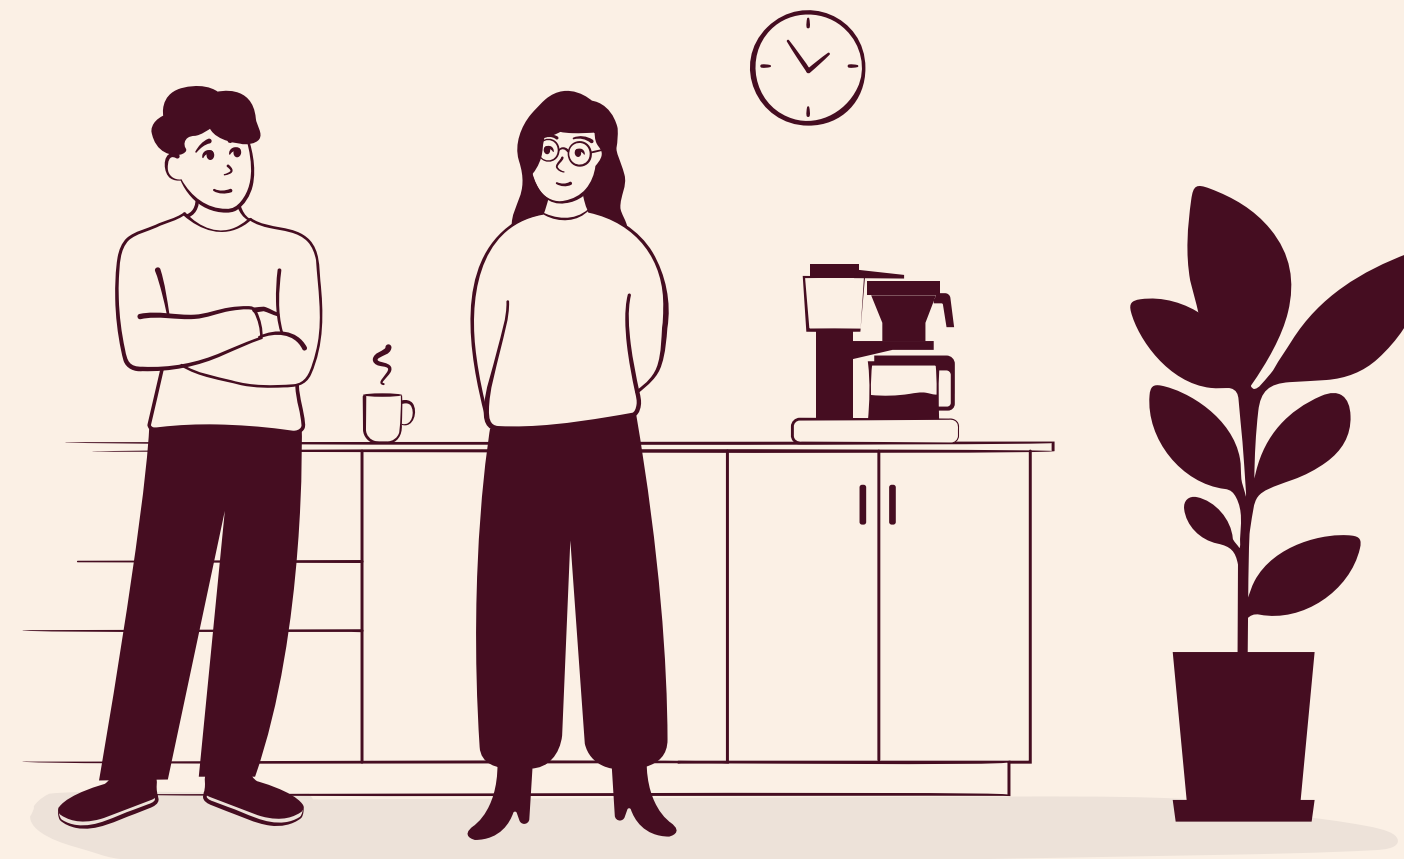

We use illustrations to convey important messages and to tie the visual identity together. With a friendly stroke, we aim to express warmth, diversity, and professional authority with a twinkle in our eye.

Our Image Style

Well-being and Innovation

Does a picture say more than a thousand words? It's a powerful tool we want to use where words fall short, or simply to show who we are. Good photos capture those warm moments, great experiences, and professional conversations and meetings.

Images should be friendly with warm, light colors, honest, and without excessive editing. Show colleagues in good conversations, during work processes, and in pleasant moments on the job.

Writing Tips

Style and tone

On the following pages, you can read more about our "style and tone" and how to bring forth the "Miles identity" in our language. We're not here to be language police; this is intended as guidance and inspiration.

n accordance with paragraph §2, point 5, line 2, letter Z, second part, employees must respond to surveys sent out before lunchtime and answer in accordance with the following guidelines, which emphasize the importance of honesty as pointed out by the Working....

Err, okay?

You, the reader, express yourself in a particular way due to your personality. We think about the Miles brand in the same way.

At the beginning of Chapter 2, we discussed the "Miles Identity" and why it's essential for setting guidelines and rules for how our visual identity should be shaped, and how our language and communication should sound.

On the next page, you'll find our "Style and Tone" table, which outlines the characteristics we want Miles to be associated with and how these can be reflected in our language and communication.

Style and Tone Table - The Personality in Our Language

Miles Identity (Style – Visual Identity)	How We Show This in the Miles Language (Tone)
Competent	We are clear, solution-oriented, confident, and open—not opinionated or dogmatic.
Engaged	We use active language with good energy, where we can show emotion and demonstrate that we care.
Including	We respect that people are different and show that diversity is a strength.
Open and curious	We encourage open dialogue and have a desire to learn and understand the how and why, ensuring we are always evolving.
Inspiring	Let's show, through both words and actions, that what we create is our driving force and can genuinely improve people's daily lives, inspiring others to follow our lead.
Responsible	We aim to be an honest and reliable workplace that takes care of our colleagues and clients, and we are conscious that what we do impacts both people and society.

On the following pages, you'll find concrete examples of how you can write more in line with our "style and tone."

The “Miles-language” is:

Authentic and clear,
professional yet friendly.

General

We believe it's better to write this way:	Than this way:	Because:
Employee well-being means everything to us at Miles. We need to know how you're doing at work, and we'd really appreciate it if you could answer a survey. Feel free to give us both praise and constructive criticism!	Answer this well-being survey at Miles.	We are, after all, human beings, not machines. We want to write in a warm, friendly, and approachable way, just as we speak to each other. We do this to create less distance between leadership and employees.
Thank you for taking the time to respond. We truly appreciate it!	Thank you for your response.	We know our consultants are busy and have limited time. We want to show we appreciate them taking the time. It won't take much time.

About New Employees

We believe it's better to write this way:	Than this way:	Because:
Warm welcome to Miles, [name]! We're so glad to have you on the team and look forward to getting to know you better.	[Name] has started at Miles. We wish him/her a warm welcome.	We want to show that we see the people behind the roles. We demonstrate that we truly care about each individual, and this strengthens our community.

Professional Development

We believe it's better to write this way:	Than this way:	Because:
We at Miles love to learn and grow together. Today, we had an inspiring professional development day where we delved into (xxx) and explored (xxx). A huge thank you to everyone who contributed and made the day so great!	We held a professional development day on (topic).	We want to share our enthusiasm and show the joy we at Miles have for learning. We inspire both colleagues and external audiences to get involved.

Milestones

We believe it's better to write this way:	Than this way:	Because:
Wow, we are so proud! Today, we're celebrating reaching [milestone] / receiving [award]. This wouldn't have been possible without the incredible effort from all of you – thank you so much!	We have reached [milestone]. Thank you so much!	It's important to show gratitude and the people behind the results. A warm and inclusive tone demonstrates that we value everyone's contributions.

Events

We believe it's better to write this way:	Than this way:	Because:
A big thank you to everyone who participated in [name of event]! It was inspiring to see so many engaged people sharing insights, experiences, and participating in great conversations. We're already looking forward to the next one!	[Event Name] was a great success.	We want to highlight the community and the positive experiences we create together, not just report facts. This fosters closeness and engagement.

Rekruttering

We believe it's better to write this way:	Than this way:	Because:
At Miles, it's about more than just technology. We are driven by the joy of finding the best solutions together, in an environment characterized by warmth, genuine conversations, and true collaboration. We love exploring exciting challenges and meeting new, inspiring people. Does this sound like a place for you? Then we would love to hear from you!	We're looking for a [position]. Read more and apply here.	We want to talk to people, not just broadcast a job advertisement. A personal and inclusive tone helps the right individuals see themselves in the role and feel inspired to apply.

Bærekraft

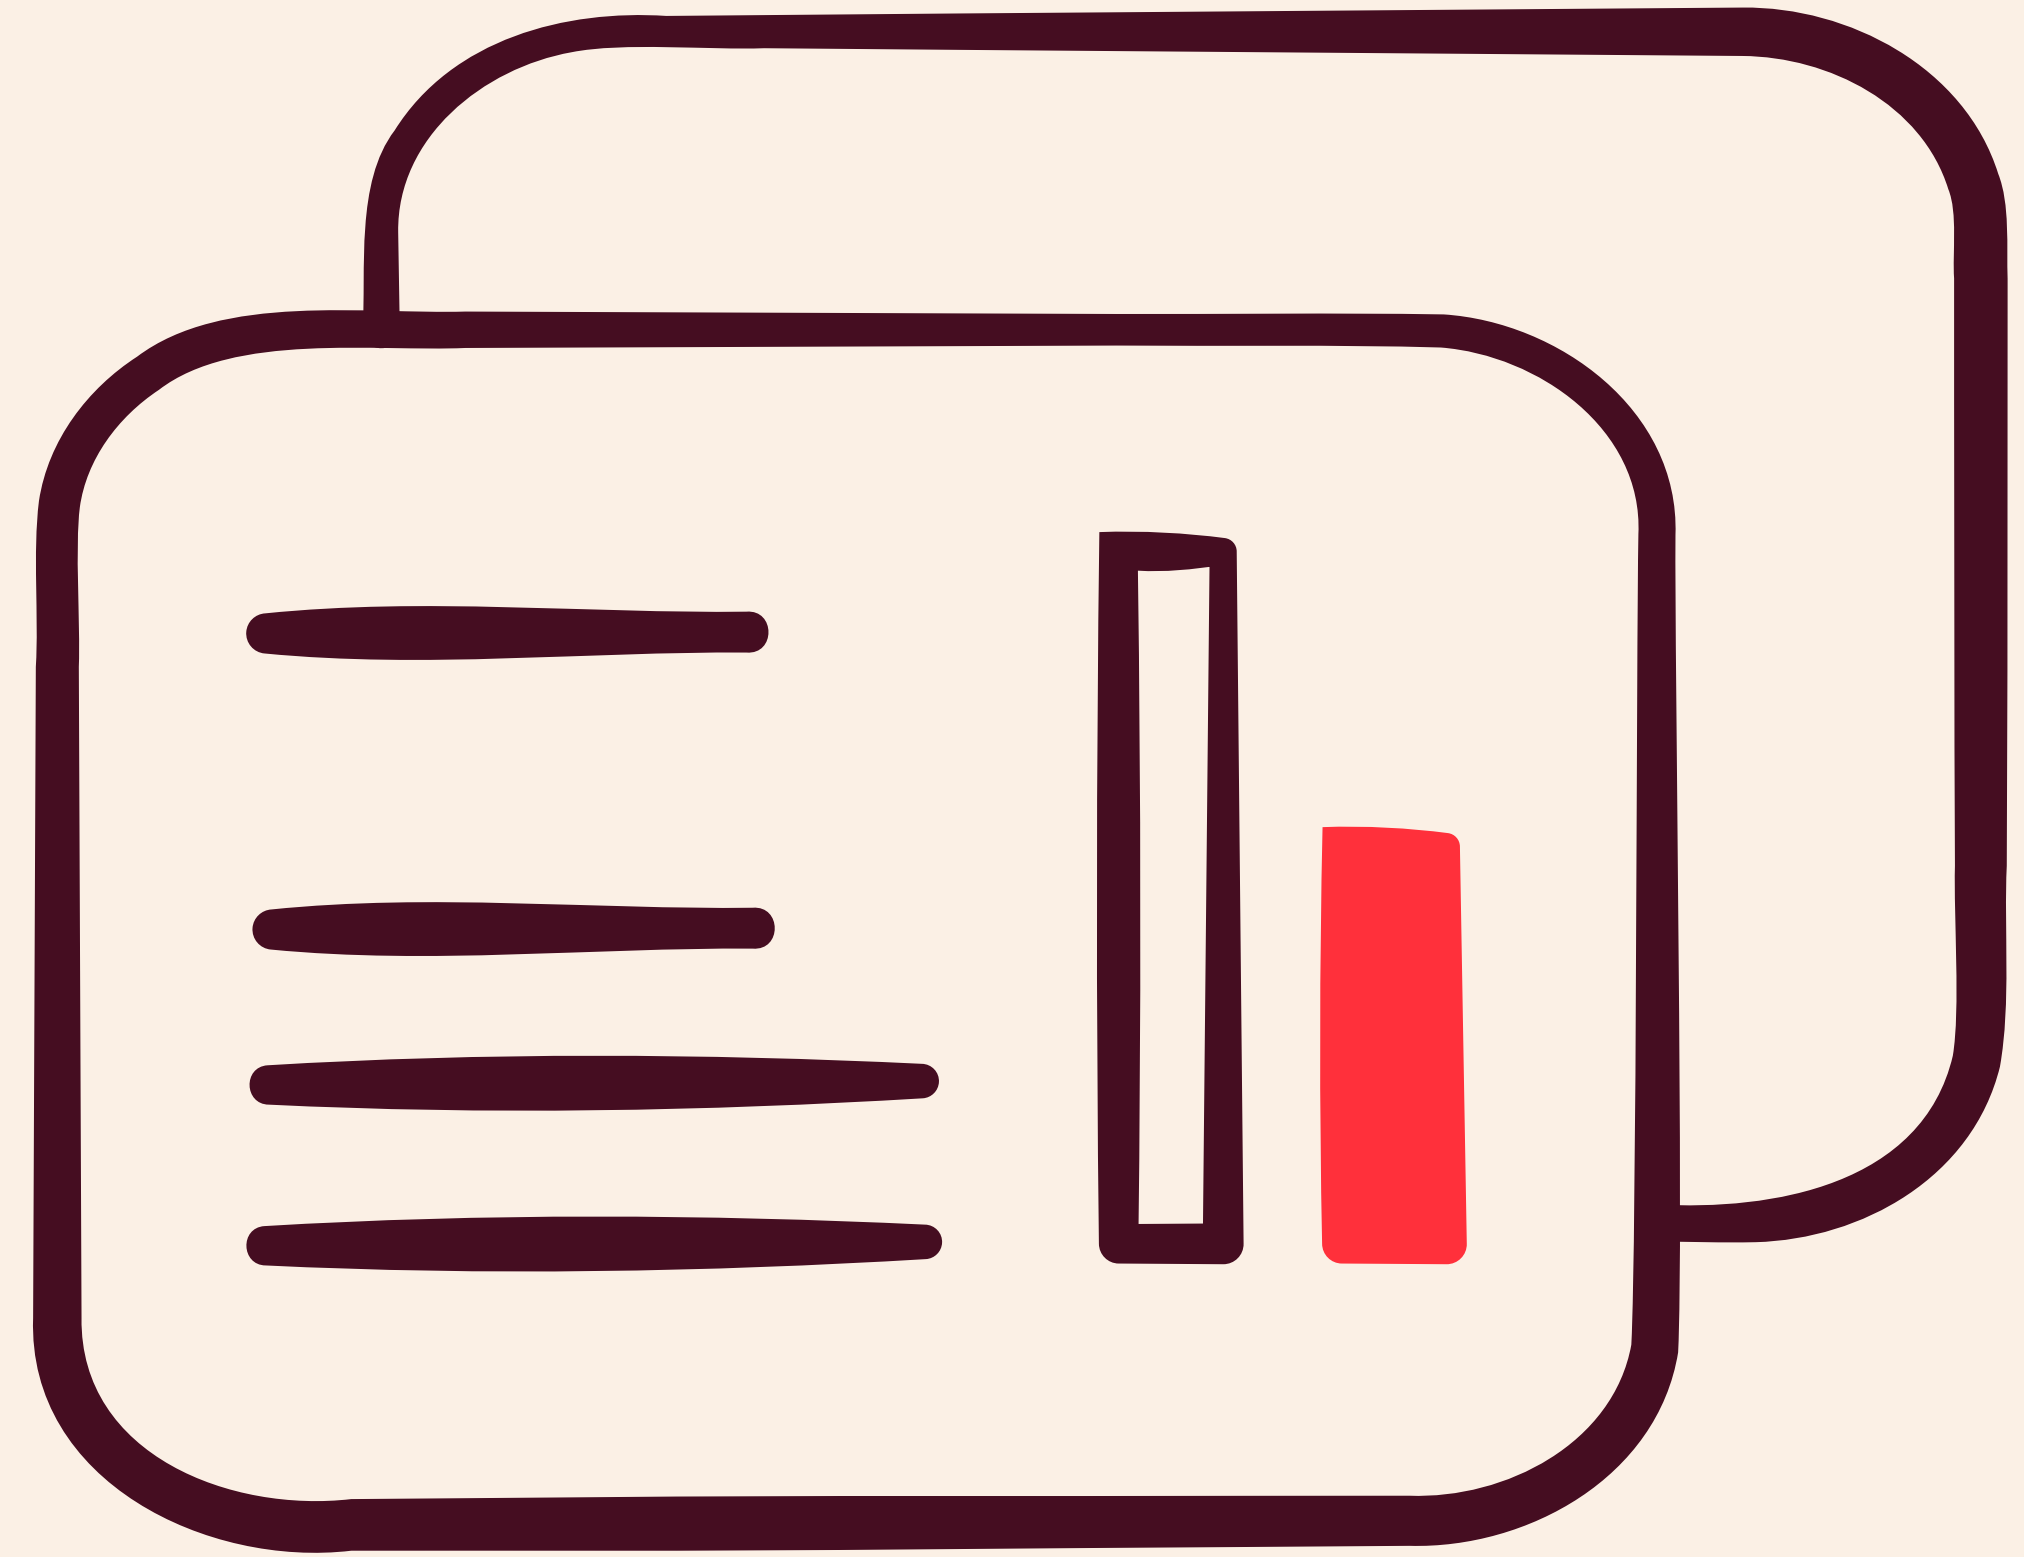

We believe it's better to write this way:	Than this way:	Because:
We at Miles want to contribute to a more sustainable future. That's why we're taking both small and large steps to reduce our footprint. Together, we can make a difference!	Miles works with sustainability	Sustainability is about engagement and community. By using a warm tone, we show that this is something we want to be a part of.

Ny merkevarestrategi og visuell identitet for Miles

Konsulent: Torje Moen Holm

Kunde: Miles

Tidsperiode: Oktober 2023 – Februar 2025

Stilling: UI/UX-designer, innholdsdesign

Hva trengte kunden hjelp til?

For å møte en stadig tøffere konkurranse i markedet trengte Miles hjelp til å øke synlighet og attraktivitet blant konsulenter og kunder. En helhetlig merkevarestrategi og oppgradering i visuell identitet ble gjennomført i perioden høsten 2023 – vinteren 2025.

Hva var konsulentens rolle i prosjektet?

Torje har jobbet i en prosjektbasert stilling internt i Miles med arbeidsoppgaver innenfor et bredt kompetanseområde som UI/UX-design, innsiktsarbeid, innholdsdesign, kommunikasjon og rådgiving om strategisk bruk av design.
